

Scripting News for 4/20/2008

Contributed by Webmaster

More info...

A new kind of Twitter outage I wasn't sure there was an outage until I read this post on ParisLemon and then this on CNET. I noticed it last night when I came back from a seder after posting a picture from the gas station with a very funny name (or so I thought). Usually when I post a pic to Twitter, even a boring one, even in the middle of the weekend, between 300 and 400 people visit (Flickr keeps track). This time only 60 people had clicked on the link. Same thing happened with a pict

Brought in by arm ship, China troops are seen on the streets of Zimbabwean city

By Ian Evans in Cape Town, The Independent, UK, Saturday, 19 April 2008- Chinese troops have been seen on the streets of Zimbabwe's third largest city, Mutare, according to local witnesses. They were seen patrolling with Zimbabwean soldiers before and during Tuesday's ill-fated general strike called by the opposition Movement for Democratic Change (MDC). Earlier, 10 Chinese soldiers armed with pistols checked in at the city's Holiday Inn along with 70 Zimbabwean troops. One eyewitness, who Pirates & Weddings & Bourbon Street Oh My!

Saturday was an absolute marathon day for the Princess of Positive. A baseball game for son #1, the premier of Kiss My Gumbo radio on AM 69 WIST, a wedding, the reception and pirates on Bourbon Street. OK - Scouts honor I am not making the pirate stuff up. And, fwiw (for what it is worth), New Orleans amazingly brings me fresh writing topics on a daily basis. ARGH! Yes, subject material literally falls from the sky here (or at least from Bourbon Street). So let me back up (car screeching noise

Back in the Saddle

Okay, I'm back from Venice. Having spent a week there last summer for the Biennale, I decided recently to do another week without the hassles of non-stop exhibition-going and blogging two or three times a day. I was still looking at art all day it's a hard life but it was nice not to have to do a thing with it other than take it in. All the same, I had expected to post once or twice last week. That was before I ran into internet hook up problems at my otherwise agreeable hotel. Now that I'm

10GB Layer 3+ Switch From Allied Telesis

To quench all your bandwidth thirst, Allied Telesis is Launching x900 12 Port Layer 3+ Switch to the Americas at Interop Las Vegas. San Jose, California, USA. April 18, 2008 Allied Telesis Inc., a global provider of secure IP/Ethernet access solutions and an industry leader in the deployment of IP Triple Play networks over copper and fiber access infrastructures, today announced the product launch of their new Gigabit switch within the Americas at Interop Las Vegas April 28 to May 2, 2008.

Hotel Cleaning

Chinese Troops On The Streets of Zimbabwean City

Via Independent.co.uk - Chinese troops have been seen on the streets of Zimbabwe's third largest city, Mutare, according to local witnesses. They were seen patrolling with Zimbabwean soldiers before and during Tuesday's ill-fated general strike called by the opposition Movement for Democratic Change (MDC). Earlier, 10 Chinese soldiers armed with pistols checked in at the city's Holiday Inn along with 70 Zimbabwean troops. One eyewitness, who asked not to be named, said: "We've never seen ChinRichard Dasch is President of Rose Restoration International, celebrating 30 Years of Marble & Stone Restoration in the worlds finest hotels.